Successful Projects Announces Successful Projects East Coast

La Crosse, Wisconsin (April 7, 2010) Successful Projects is pleased to announce a license agreement with Rock Solid Dominion, LLC, which is owned by Harry Roch and operating in New Jersey, USA that will immediately start doing business as Successful Projects East Coast. The primary area of focus for the new business is the east coast expansion of the Successful Project's college Certificate in Project Management program, which is currently offered at four Wisconsin Universities.

Mr. Roch worked for EDS and HP for approximately twenty years in IT/Analyst/Information Specialist positions. His primary skills lie in developing client relationships and designing and developing business solutions aligned with business initiatives. He has expertise in project management and he is a recognized expert in peer training and mentoring. He has a history of creative problem solving and demonstrated commitment to process and product quality.

Kay Wais, Successful Projects founder and owner, is very pleased to have Mr. Roch representing her company and the Certificate in Project Management program, saying "Harry is a strong supporter of the design of our individualized coaching-oriented college certificate program and he is dedicated to expanding and supporting it fulltime. He has been observing the program for the past 9 months and he understands the benefits and growth potential Successful Projects has across the east coast. I cannot image a better fit for directing Successful Project's east coast programs."

Successful Projects creates and distributes project management related education and products worldwide. Today there are licensed offices in the United States, Australia, and Spain and additional distributors in the U.S. and Canada.
